Reading Royals offer Marquee Six Game Plan

The Reading Royals announced today the sale of the Marquee Six Game Plan for $54 that guarantees a ticket for opening night on Saturday, October 13 versus the Trenton Titans at the Sovereign Center. The plan also guarantees same seat location for five other home games against the Royals' top rivals. All games in the plan begin at 7:05 p.m.:

- Sat., Oct. 13 vs. Trenton Titans
 - Fri., Oct. 26 vs. Johnstown Chiefs
 - Sat., Nov. 10 vs. Charlotte Checkers
 - Sat., Nov. 17 vs. Trenton Titans
 - Fri., Nov. 30 vs. Atlantic City Boardwalk Bullies
 - Sat., Dec. 15 vs. Trenton Titans
- "This ticket plan allows fans to attend the Friday and Saturday games that match up the Royals to their top rivals like the Trenton Titans," said Reading Royals

General Manager Ray Delia. "Plus, they have a reserved seat for each game including the spectacular opening night festivities on October 13."

Fans will have the opportunity to upgrade to full season ticket holder status. Seating is based on availability in the Mezzanine Section only. Quantities are limited. Call the Front Office of the Royals at 610-898-PUCK (7825) to order the Marquee Six Game Plan or available season tickets for the Royals' inaugural season.

Royals name two to training camp

The Reading Royals have invited B.J. Stephens and Darwin Murray to their training camp beginning the end of September. Stephens played last season in the United Hockey League, while Murray skated for Niagara University.

Royals head coach Al Sims on his new prospects, "I have heard great things about both players. B.J.'s a big and strong forward that was highly recommended by Bob Hartley (Colorado Avalanche head coach). He just needs a chance in a good situation."

"Darwin Murray has good size. He is a stay at home defenseman that plays hard every night." commented Sims.

Murray is excited about his opportunity with the Royals. "I've always looked forward to playing pro hockey. I had a good four years in college. Now I am excited to show what I can do in the pros."

The Royals first game is on the road against Kelly Cup finalist, Trenton. On October 13, the Royals will invite the Titans to their new quarters at the Sovereign Center.

Ticket information can be received by contacting the Royals at the Center.
